DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 10/20/03 has been considered by the examiner. Note, sheet 2 of the IDS did not contain any listing of documents and no documents to be considered were identified on sheet

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-11, and 13-22, 24-25, 29-30, 34 are rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cornou (US 4,362,244).

Cornou teaches a nestable storage container, comprising:

an angled peripheral wall (24,25,26,6) having inner and outer surfaces, the peripheral wall having a top end and a bottom end that adjoins the bottom wall, the peripheral wall and bottom wall defining a storage area, and wherein the peripheral wall extends from the bottom wall at a predetermined angle such that the container is stackable (see column 3, lines 18-29);

Art Unit: 3611

wherein the peripheral wall (24,25,26,6) includes a lip (1,2) extending therefrom, the lip extending a distance greater than the wall of the display window from the outer surface of the peripheral wall;

the peripheral wall (24,25,26,6) includes a flange portion (9) extending outwardly, the display window extending from the flange portion of the peripheral wall; a display window (10,9, 8,7,7a) extending from the outer surface of the peripheral wall, the display window (10,9, 8,7,7a) having a wall (10) spaced away from the outer surface of the peripheral wall to define a gap (31) there-between; and at least one reusable display token (13) adapted for removable insertion into the gap (31) defined by the display window and the peripheral wall, the at least one display token being visible through at least one of the wall of the display window and the peripheral wall.

For claim 5, note Cornou teaches the container is molded from synthetic resin which is understood to include, inter alia, polyethylene.

For claims 6 and 7, note the elements which form the display window also form an opening which is at least partially transparent.

For claims 9 and 10, note the display window formed by elements 10,9, 8,7,7a are integrally attached to the peripheral wall.

For claim 11, note the display window wall defines an angle between the wall of the display window and the peripheral wall, see column 3, lines 64-68.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 12 and 26-28, 31-33, 35-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cornou, as respectively applied to claims 1 and 13.

Cornou, as respectively applied to claims 1 and 13 teaches a storage container having the claimed limitations except at least one additional display windows extending from the peripheral wall and specific display indicia.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the storage container of Cornou to include at least one additional display windows extending from the peripheral wall, because mere ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to whatever indicia is desired by the user since it would only depend on the intended use of the container and the desired information to be displayed.

Further, for claims 36-42, the recited method of storing goods is understood to be a well known method of using the nestable container with indicia holder of Cornou because the container is disclosed as useable in a variety of purposes, such as agriculture, food processing, commerce and industry which are understood to utilize the recited steps.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 8 and 23 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art does not show a storage container as recited in the independent claims and as applicable to the dependent claims wherein the display window includes a drainage channel in communication with the gap defined by the display window wall and the peripheral wall.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bartholomew teaches a tote box. Hartman teaches a display window includes a drainage channel in communication with the gap defined by the display window wall and the peripheral wall.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bartholomew teaches a tote box. Hartman teaches a container with a card holding structure. Mauser teaches a stackable box. Gauche teaches a label holder. Clipson et al. teaches a storage bin with a card holder. Kady teaches a rolling caddy. Smith teaches a pet accessory carrying case.
